Fund Objective

The objective of the High Yield Credit fund is to generate returns in excess of a typical income fund. This fund is best suited for investors looking for enhanced income returns with very low liquidity requirements.

Investment Strategy

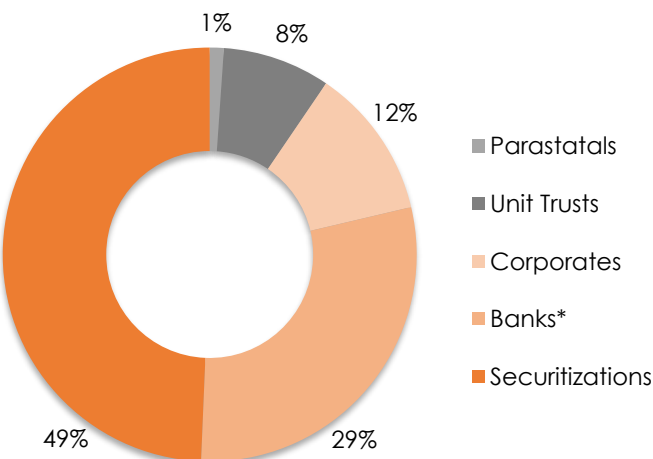

Employs a conservative approach to enhance yields through extracting the liquidity risk premium in longer dated and less liquid debt instruments, as well as an increased exposure to credit assets. Our fundamental credit review process is robust, combining qualitative and quantitative analysis, overlaid with institutional memory to question convention, operating within a strong risk and compliance framework. Our portfolio construction process builds a well-diversified fund targeting up to 30+ counterparties to further diversify risks.

Fund Outlook

The fund continues to maintain a low duration, and a moderate maturity and liquidity position. Issue spreads in the domestic listed debt capital markets overall remain contained due to the demand for assets despite the pace of issuance. We continue to look for opportunities in both the public and private debt space. The fund is well positioned for the current interest rate outlook. We remain cautious in these times with regards to credit and liquidity risk.

Market Commentary

The harmonised index of consumer prices in the eurozone rose by 2.5 percent year-on-year in June, a slight decline from the 2.6 percent year-on-year recorded in the previous month. Excluding food and energy, core inflation eased from 2.9 percent year-on-year in May to 2.8 percent year-on-year in June, in line with market expectations. Market participants are also forecasting additional policy adjustments by the European Central Bank (ECB), following the 25-basis points rate cut announced on the 6th of June. The ECB has now joined three other central banks overseeing the 10 most heavily traded currencies in reducing their policy rates since the start of the year.

The strength of US consumers, which has been reliant on the boost in savings from the pandemic era, seems to be coming to an end. Following the steady rise in the official unemployment rate, the total number of Americans collecting unemployment benefits rose for the 8th straight week, to 1.84 million as of the 15th of June 2024. This is the highest level in more than two years. Similarly, the US economic surprise index has also registered its most negative reading in 24 months, with policy expectations currently indicating possible rate cuts from as early as September 2024.

According to Statistics South Africa, total employment decreased by 67 000 quarter-on-quarter, from 10 731 000 in December 2023 to 10 664 000 in March 2024. This was mainly owed to layoffs across the trade, community services, business services, and the mining sector. Similarly, gross earnings paid to employees fell by R35.1 b from R993 b in December 2023 to R957.9 b in March 2024. With nearly half of the working population unemployed, and the average household debt-to-income ratio north of 70 percent, policymakers remain poised to reduce real rates that have been on an upward trajectory since the peak of inflation back in July 2022.

In the SA money market, forward rates have since readjusted lower, pricing in the probability of 3 rate cuts over the next 12 months. In June 2024, the 3-month JIBAR rate was unchanged while the 12-month JIBAR rate fell by 27.5 bps to 8.917 compared to the previous month.
