Fund Objective

The objective of the Enhanced Income Fund is to generate returns well in excess of a typical core cash fund. This fund is best suited for investors looking for enhanced cash returns with low capital risk and low liquidity requirements.

Investment Strategy

Employs a conservative approach to enhance yields through extracting the liquidity risk premium in longer dated and less liquid debt instruments, as well as a marginal increased exposure to credit assets. Our fundamental credit review process is robust, combining qualitative and quantitative analysis, overlaid with institutional memory to question convention, operating within a strong risk and compliance framework. Our portfolio construction process builds a well-diversified fund targeting 30+ counterparties to further diversify risks

Fund Outlook

The fund continues to maintain a low duration, and a moderate maturity and liquidity position. Issue spreads in the domestic listed debt capital markets overall remain contained due to the demand for assets despite the pace of issuance. We continue to look for opportunities in both the public and private debt space. The fund is well positioned for the current interest rate outlook. We remain cautious in these times with regards to credit and liquidity risk.

Market Commentary

The United States (U.S.) Federal Reserve (Fed) announced at its March meeting that it would maintain the overnight federal funds rate at the current range of 5.25 percent to 5.5 percent. Projections published at the Fed's March 2024 meeting showed that policymakers expect to deliver three (3) rate cuts this year. This remains in line with expectations derived from the futures market. While U.S. inflation may be receding, growth is however resilient, muting the urgency to adjust the policy rate over the near-term.

President of the European Central Bank (ECB), Christine Lagarde, also announced that the three (3) key ECB rates will be left unchanged. However, the ECB President lamented the risks to economic growth being tilted to the downside. Consumer spending is tepid. Employers are posting fewer job vacancies. Fiscal and structural policies are facing geopolitical headwinds. To this end, the latest ECB staff projections indicate downward revisions to inflation, which is expected to fall below target within the next two years.

At their last meeting, the South African Reserve Bank's (SARB) Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) also decided to leave the repo rate unchanged at 8.25 percent. The decision to pause was unanimous and in line with surveyed expectations. The economy of South Africa is unlikely to grow above full employment over the foreseeable future. This is mainly owed to sub-investment ratings, deteriorating infrastructure, and growing levels of political uncertainty. Slowing economic activity has also played a major role in reducing inflation, which continues to remain vulnerable to external shocks and increases in administered prices.

On a conspectus of the above, the Forward Rate Agreement (FRA) market is now pricing in two (2) rate cuts this year. In March 2024, the 3-month JIBAR rate fell by 1.7 basis points to 8.500, while the 12-month JIBAR rate rose by 5 basis points to 9.125 versus the previous month. Over the past year, the 3-month, and the 12-month JIBAR rates increased by 39.2 basis points and 12.5 basis points, respectively.
